

Wedding Prices

“Our Philosophy”

At Paul S. Robinson Photography, our prices are competitive with other professional photography studios in the Massachusetts and Rhode Island areas. In the years we have been photographing weddings, we have seen brides looking for a $500 wedding and we have seen brides looking to spend $10,000 for a wedding. No matter what the price, we still strive for quality and images that will mean something to you when you celebrate your 50th wedding anniversary.

Paul’s approach to your wedding day is to tell the story of your special day. He does this with a combination of photojournalistic, traditional and candid images. He likes when you say “I didn’t even know you were taking this picture” or when you tell him “The picture looks like it belongs in a bridal magazine.” That’s when he knows that he has done his job and knows that those comments come from his education, experience and training to be a good wedding photographer.

Paul charges $200 an hour for wedding photography coverage. That includes the editing time for each picture. So if you hire us for an 8 hour day the $1600 includes photography and editing of your pictures. Typically Paul takes about 1500 pictures for an 8 hour wedding and you will receive around 500-800 images to view and pick out your final images.

Our studio offers individually designed albums with 3 price points of around $600, $1100 and $1400. These would be leather 12”x12” 10 pages/20 sides. There are many options to choose from and a wide array of sizes and fabric types. We also offer Press Printed Albums for those brides that would like an album but need to stay within a budget.
